Foreword

THIS ANNUAL HAS AS ITS PURPOSES THE PRESERVATION OF MOMENTS IN THE COLLEGE LIFE WHICH THE STUDENT CHERISHES AND DESIRES TO HOLD WITHIN HIS MEMORY. PERHAPS WE CAN NOT SO QUICKLY REALIZE THE VALUE OF A YEAR BOOK, BUT IN FUTURE YEARS, THE L'AMI WILL BRING AGAIN TO LIFE THE FRIENDSHIPS AND GOOD TIMES AT PACIFIC COLLEGE. THIS IS OUR AIM IN PUBLISHING THE SECOND YEAR BOOK AT PACIFIC COLLEGE, THE 1936 L'AMI.

College Song

Close beside Chehalem's Mountain
Is the college we adore;
Like an ever-flowing fountain
She shall stand for evermore.
Where she stands, we'll ne'er forget it,
Near the old Willamette's banks,
And in years we'll ne'er regret it
That we entered in her ranks.

CHORUS

'Tis the good old Quaker college,
And we'll shout her worthy name,
Where we gained our store of knowledge
In her halls of honor's fame,
And we'll always in this manner
To our mother school be true,
'Neath Pacific College banner
Of Old Gold and Navy Blue.

Comrades, come and raise your voices,
Let us praise Pacific dear
While with her your heart rejoices,
Spread her glory far and near.
Then a rousing cheer we give her,
'Tis the least that we can do;
Old P. C. we'll love forever,
Our Old Gold and Navy Blue.

When the four loved years of college
Shall have long since passed away,
When with worldly care and knowledge
Many a head is turning gray,
Still we'll shout her praise the louder
And our hearts give echo true,
As we cheer our Alma Mater,
Of Old Gold and Navy Blue.

Executive Council

THE EXECUTIVE COUNCIL is the governing body on the Pacific campus and has for its purpose the general transaction of business as well as the promotion of friendship among the students. It attempts to further the growth of unity of thought and purpose among the students and its control is exercised over the entire student body.

The student body sponsors many social activities such as the Hallowe'en masquerade, and it is responsible for Homecoming and May Day. The student body play and the forensics activities are also under the supervision of this body.

The "L'Ami" is the yearbook which is published by the associated student body.

A successful year has been completed due to the efficiency of this year's council. Clayton Hicks has served as president with the help of other student body officers who were: Jean Gardner, vice-president; Mary Collver, secretary; and Louis Coffin, treasurer.

Board of Managers

PACIFIC COLLEGE is controlled by a Board of Managers and much of its past success has been due to the efforts of this group. The board has general charge of the college, administers the finances, confers degrees, outlines the general policy, and elects the members of the faculty. The complete membership of the board numbers fifteen.

The group is divided into three classes, each serving three years. Two-fifths of the board are nominated by the board itself, two-fifths by the Permanent Board of Oregon Yearly Meeting and one-fifth by the Alumni Association.

Dr. Thomas Hester, a former graduate of the college, has presided as president of the board for the last six years. Other officers are: Joseph McCracken, vice-president; Hervey M. Hoskins, secretary; Oliver Weesner, treasurer. President Pennington is an ex-officio member. Nearly all the members of the board are graduates or former students of Pacific College.

The board is divided into five committees; namely, Executive, Faculty and Officers, Buildings and Grounds, Museum and Library, and Finance.

Senior Class

IN THE FALL of 1932, thirty-five freshmen entered Pacific College. They were properly initiated at Aebischer's prune drier by the able sophomores. Under the direction of Miss Carter, the class play, "Apple Blossom Time," was presented. There were two class parties. One was at the home of their president, Don Hodson, and one at Arlouine Bennett's. At the close of the year a picnic was given the sophomores. They properly initiated the incoming freshmen in the college canyon and were entertained, in turn, by them at the annual picnic at Hirter's. Ronald Sherk was president.

With Ruthanna McCracken as president many social activities filled their junior year. Besides several class parties, one of which was a waffle supper held in the annex, the group entertained the members of the class of '35 at the annual Junior-Senior Banquet. The theme was "The Old Fashioned Garden," with decorations, songs, and toasts to correspond. At the close of the year, they did final honor to the Senior class by superintending commencement week. At class night, they received the citizenship plaque from the seniors.

This year, again led by Ronald Sherk, with Isabella Wilson as vice-president, Margaret Coulson as secretary, and Maxine Mason as treasurer, the class has been very active. Several parties have been given, at which plans for graduation have been discussed.

One of the members won honor in the after dinner speaking contest. Another represented the college in the state oratorical contest, while still another was a member of the girls' champion debate squad. The class has supported all student activities and will be greatly missed.

A bulletin board was selected as the class gift. As a climax to their college career, the Senior class play was given, followed by commencement.

Junior Class

THREE YEARS AGO, the largest freshman class in the history of Pacific College was enrolled. This class of 49 students, under the leadership of Allen Hadley, presented the play "The Man From Nowhere" and entertained the sophomores at the annual class picnic.

During their sophomore year they initiated the new frosh and then entertained them by a class party. During that year, also, the class erected a drinking fountain in the gymnasium as their school gift. Mary Collver was president.

This year there are 23 active members. The major class officers are held by: John Dimond, president; Louis

The outstanding social event of the year sponsored by this group was the annual Junior-Senior banquet. A nautical theme was used.

Various members of the class held prominent positions on the athletic and debate teams. Major offices in the student body, Gold P club, Gold Q club, and in the Christian associations were held by juniors.

As a climax to their year's activities, the class helped make commencement week a success.

Freshmen

Sophomore Class

THE SOPHOMORE CLASS, headed this year by Louis Coffin, president; Arney Houser, vice-president; Janet Jack, secretary; and Dorothy Choate, treasurer, has taken an active part in all the affairs of the college.

Although there were several of its original number who failed to return, a large percentage of the class re-entered Pacific College this year.

This class in its freshman year, through a cash donation as its school gift, made possible the first publication of the L'Ami. That same year the class presented a three act comedy, "The McMurray Chin." Throughout that year Lewis Hoskins was president.

The sophomores started the year by properly initiating the large group of freshmen, and afterward entertaining the rooks at a "wienie" roast.

A St. Patrick's party was held March 14 at the home of Marjorie Miller, social committee chairman. The game of scavengers constituted the evening's entertainment.

A large number of the positions on Pacific's athletic and debate teams, a number of student body officers, and parts in play casts were filled by enterprising sophomores.

Freshman Class

FORTY-FOUR young men and women entered Pacific College for the first time in September, 1935. This Freshman class was soon placed under the leadership of Wayne Burt, president; Jack Mahoney, vice-president; Helen Schmeltzer, secretary; and Robert Bailey, treasurer. Merrill Forsythe served as vice-president during the second semester.

The traditional freshman green first appeared in the form of green bows, as green caps could not be secured early enough to satisfy the watchful sophomores. Later, the freshmen were properly initiated and entertained by the sophomores. After this, the freshmen settled down to the acquisition of learning.

During the early part of the spring term, the class entertained with the annual Freshman-Sophomore picnic.

As yet, no class gift to the school has been decided upon.

The Kingdom of Love

I went to Cupid's rare retreat,
I wandered o'er the sand,
The moon rose o'er the water,
As I held her little—parasol.

I held her little parasol,
Goodness me; how time does fly!
The night was very lovely,
As I gazed into her—lunch basket.

I gazed into her lunch basket,
And I longed for just a taste,
Then sat beside my little lass
With my arm around her—umbrella handle.

With my arm around the umbrella handle
Of that charming little miss,
The moon stole o'er the water,
And I shyly stole a—sandwich.

THE YOUNG MEN'S Christian Association of Pacific College is a spiritual campus movement of students and faculty for the following purposes: to lead young men into membership and service in the Christian church; to promote their growth in a Christian faith; to influence them to devote themselves in united effort with all Christians.

Membership in the Young Men's Christian Association is extended to all men interested, and the organization strives to build up the spiritual, mental, and physical phases of life.

Under the leadership of Harvey Campbell, president; Rex Hampton, vice-president; Wilbur Newby, secretary; Lewis Hoskins, treasurer; Eldon Bush, deputation; Virgil Hiatt, world fellowship; Louis Coffin, social and social service; John Dimond, membership and publicity; and Emmett Gulley, faculty adviser, the Y. M. C. A. enjoyed a very successful year. The Y. M. C. A. room was repaired, the floor painted, and the walls refinished. The deputation and social service committees were especially active sponsoring worthwhile projects.

SPIRITUAL, social, mental, and physical growth of student character is the aim of the Young Women's Christian Association. Meetings are held at the chapel hour each Wednesday throughout the year. All women in school are welcome. The deputation and social welfare committees contribute as much as possible to the community life.

With the aid of the Y. M. C. A., a reception for new students is held at the first of each semester. The two Christian associations carry on a weekly prayer meeting that benefits all who attend. The two groups edit and distribute to all students a handbook of information concerning organizations, traditions, school-calendar, school yells and songs. The women sponsor a big and little sister movement, a Christmas party for poor children, a mothers' tea, and a May breakfast.

Ruthanna McCracken as president has guided the organization with Margaret Coulson, vice president; Doris Darnielle, secretary; Mary Brooks, treasurer. Committee chairmen were: Dorothy Choate, Christian world education; Peggy Otis, social; Isabella Wilson, deputation; Marjorie Seely, social service; Rachel Pemberton, music; and Thelma Jones, publicity.

Men's Athletic Association

THE M. A. A. of Pacific College is an organization of all men in the school to promote and sponsor athletics on the campus. The association this year sponsored football, basketball, baseball, and tennis, and provided all equipment for these sports. The M. A. A. has charge of all gate receipts taken in during athletic contests at the college. This year, because of lack of money, expenses were curtailed a great deal and there was no track contest.

The men of the college elect a council which consists of four officers and class representatives together with a faculty adviser. The members of the council were: Delmer Putnam, president; Orla Kendall, vice-president; Glenn Everest, secretary; Ned Green, treasurer; Rex Hampton, senior representative; John Dimond, junior representative. The sophomore and freshman classes are not represented. Professor Emmett Gulley is faculty adviser.

Managers for the athletic teams are named by the council and were as follows: Ray Hansberry and Louis Coffin, football; Ray Hansberry, basketball; Bruce Rogers and Robert Nordyke, baseball; and Wayne Tate, tennis.

Women's Athletic Association

TO CREATE good sportsmanship and thereby promote women's athletic activities is the goal of the W. A. A. All college women enrolled for physical education or working for letters are automatically classed as members of the organization.

This past year the W. A. A. has brightened the women's locker room in the gym with interior decorations.

Such activities as volleyball, baseball, hiking, tennis, and archery are encouraged. The duties of managers for each sport are to schedule games, keep records of each player, and recommend awards to the council.

The council for 1935-36 included: Isabella Wilson, president; Violet Braithwaite, vice-president; Janet Jack, secretary-treasurer; and managers—Emma Hogue, volleyball; Lucy Wilson, basketball; Rachel Sperry, baseball; Ruth Wilde, hiking; Corilda Stewart, tennis; and Rachel Pemberton, archery.

"L'Ami"

NINETEEN HUNDRED THIRTY-SIX marks the first birthday of the Pacific College yearbook, "L'Ami," born last year as an outgrowth of freshman inspiration.

It is the natural desire of each newspaper or magazine editor to excel in his work by means of some outstanding feature found in the publication. Wilbur Newby, sophomore editor of this book, has realized that ambition through the medium of creditable work displayed in the second Pacific College "L'Ami" edition.

When a school as small as Pacific undertakes to finance a yearbook, it requires the combined efforts of every person in the institution to make the project a success. However, the great monetary burden usually falls upon the shoulders of a business manager. Ronald Sherk, capable business executive of the 1936 "L'Ami," and his assistant, John Dimond, procured more than $225 of advertising in addition to promoting a successful sales campaign among the students.

The Greeks' cultural gifts were of great importance in later world developments. As Greek mythology is the general theme of this book, the editors have striven to make the 1936 "L'Ami" a distinct contribution to Pacific College progress.

The Crescent

THE CHESCENT is a four page bi-weekly paper published by the Associated Students of Pacific College. This publication is striving to provide accurate up-to-date news of all college affairs; to promote better cooperation between faculty and students; to provide a graphic picture of college life; and to uphold the high standards of the college.

The Crescent was first seen in 1891 and has continued strongly. It was first a monthly literary paper but in 1914 under the editorship of Emmett Gulley was changed to the present form.

Under the following elective officers: Lewis Hoskins, editor; John Dimond, business manager; Arney Houser, advertising manager; Bruce Rogers, circulation manager; Miss Emma Kendall, faculty adviser; and the staff appointed by the editor, The Crescent was entirely enlarged and another column added, making a much better college paper. Two special editions, the freshman edition and the senior edition, were put out, and several larger issues were published.

Trefian Literary Society

ORGANIZED for the purpose of further stimulating literary appreciation and promoting wholesome social fellowship in the student body, the Trefian Literary Society was launched in the year 1914.

Regular bi-weekly meetings are held by the society in the parlors of Canyon Hall. Programs featuring literary and musical numbers constitute the entertainment for each meeting.

The officers presiding for the first term were: Violet Braithwaite, president; Ruth Wilde, vice-president; Dorothy Choate, secretary; Jean Gardner, treasurer; Mary Collver, social chairman; Marjorie Seely, reporter; Wauline Nelson, marshal; Miss Veva Garrett, adviser.

Officers for the second semester were: Marjorie Seely, president; Mary Brooks, vice-president; Dorothy Morse, secretary; Ruth Coppock, treasurer; Isabella Wilson, critic; Dorothy Choate, reporter; Helen Schmeltzer, social chairman; Leslie May Blakely, marshal; and Miss Mary Sutton, faculty adviser.

International Relations

THE INTERNATIONAL Relations club of Pacific College was organized in May, 1931, in affiliation with the Carnegie Foundation for International Peace. The meetings of this organization are held bi-weekly. At this time reports of world events are presented and discussed by the several members. Membership includes all persons who attend meetings. The policy of the club has been to keep "organization" at a minimum. Officers for the current year were: Marjorie Seely, president; Mary Brooks, vice-president; and Professor C. L. Conover, adviser.

As guest of the club on October 24, 1935, Mr. Cecil Hinshaw, former Pacific College student and authority in current news, discussed the actions and attitudes of the Italo-Ethiopian conflict. Mr. Paul Elliott, class of '21, met with the club January 27, 1936, and directed a discussion of International Neutrality. On February 6, 1936, the organization met for an informal discussion of the local peace campaigns, with Mr. J. J. Handsaker, who represented the National Council for Prevention of War.

Gold P Club

THE GOLD P CLUB is a group organized to uphold the athletic traditions and sponsor athletics at Pacific College. Any man who makes a letter in a sport and meets with the approval of members is taken into this honorary club. The lettermen's club is one of the oldest organizations in the college, being formulated in 1912.

The club had one of its most active years under Ned Green, president, and Delmer Putnam, flunky. Early in the year a trip to Meadow Lake was taken by members and guests. Seven neophytes entered the club after a two weeks initiation, followed by a journey to the coast. An outstanding event of the school year was the Gold P club banquet.

The most notable project this year was the sponsoring of the first Pacific College Invitation Grade School Basketball Tournament. With the help of Loren Turner of Harding School the affair was planned as an annual occurrence. St. Mary's took first, with Sherwood the runners up. Sheridan took the consolation honors, and Lafayette won the sportsmanship cup. Twelve teams entered.

Gold Q Club

THE GOLD Q CLUB holds as its purpose better sportsmanship among students in school and in everyday life. The members try to encourage any college activity for school spirit, and help with whatever is needed at games, at Homecoming, and at the annual football party. A blue tam with a gold Q is the badge.

According to the constitution, sportsmanship is honesty, cheerfulness, enthusiasm, courtesy, graciousness in victory, and interest in the sport.

Any woman earning a letter and meeting the approval of the club members is eligible to join. New members are formally initiated at the first of the fall semester. Since membership does not end with graduation, the total number of members is now twenty after one year's existence.

The club sponsors a Valentine Day Dinner which is to become a formal annual affair.

Offices for the past year were: Jean Gardner, president; Rachel Pemberton, vice-president; Lera Rice, secretary; Isabella Wilson, treasurer; and Mary Brooks, booster.

Veva Garrett

MISS VEVA GARRETT has completed her first year as director of dramatics at Pacific College and can boast of having coached three major productions, one deputation play, and supervised a dramatics class, two public speaking classes and coached forensics. Under her experienced hand, the women's debating teams took championship of the state of Oregon, and the men's teams ranked second. Her first major dramatic presentation played to a full house and was acclaimed one of the best ever produced in Newberg. She attended Pacific College and later Monmouth Normal School. She graduated from Willamette University.

Joseph Finley

JOSEPH FINLEY has replaced Professor Alexander Hull as vocal instructor this year. He has directed numerous church choirs as well as the Symphony Chorus in Portland. He is also now teaching vocal and supervising the glee club at Oregon City high school. Private lessons are also given by him. During his first year at Pacific, Mr. Finley directed one Christmas cantata, "His Natal Day", and Handel's "Messiah" which was very successful as well as something new for Pacific College.

Earl Wagner

EARL WAGNER is also new to Pacific this year as piano instructor. He came from Pacific University and Yale with high honors in music—the fundamentals as well as the technique. He taught classes in harmony, the development of music and private piano lessons. He also accompanied the chorus in its concerts. Part of his time was devoted to Forest Grove, Oregon, where he taught piano and similar musical subjects at Pacific University.

"Skidding"

"SKIDDING," a comedy drama by Aurania Rouverol, was presented by the Pacific College student body on January 10, 1936, to a capacity audience.

In spite of various difficulties during the preparation—shifting characters and postponing presentation—the play was outstanding and declared one of the finest ever presented by Pacific College.

The characters in the cast were all experienced actors.

The romantic leads, Marion Hardy and Wayne Trenton, were vividly portrayed by Esther Miller and Louis Coffin. The parts of Judge Hardy and his wife were taken by Willard Hehn and Rachel Pemberton.

Humor was created in the parts of Andy Hardy (Wilbur Newby) and Stubbins (Ronald Sherk). Marjorie Miller and Myrna Siefken took the characters of the two dissatisfied married sisters who had come home to mother. Tom Overman was excellent in the part of the lovable old grandpa, and Dorothy Choate very capably undertook the part of Aunt Milly, when Helen Schmeltzer dropped it because of illness.

Much credit is due Miss Veva Garrett, dramatics instructor, for her splendid work in coaching the play.

"The Romantic Young Lady"

AS A CLIMAX to the very colorful May Day festival, the student body presented a clever three-act comedy "The Romantic Young Lady."

The play by the famous playwright, Martinez Sierra, and coached by Miss Veva Garrett, was outstanding and played before a large audience.

The members of the cast performed skilfully. The two leading parts, Rosario and the Apparition, were taken by Isabel Frost and Allen Hadley. Dorothy Choate took the part of the old grandmother, Dona Barbarita; and Emma Hogue portrayed Maria Papa, a servant. Ray Miller and Victor Morse took the parts of Emilio and Pepe, brothers of Rosario. Irene, secretary to the author, was depicted by Doris Darnielle, while Janet Jack was seen as Amalia, a dancer who tried to vamp the author.

John Dimond took the part of Mario, another brother who is a newspaper man; Bruce Rogers portrayed Don Juan, a friend of the author; and Lewis Hoskins was seen as Guillermo, a generallissimo for the author.

The setting for the play was in Madrid and the performance offered many interesting complications and picturesque situations.

"The Millionaire"

THE MILLIONAIRE," a three act comedy by Juliet Tompkins, was presented in Wood-Mar Hall, March 13, by the Freshman class.

The play was effectively coached by Miss Veva Garrett. Miss Garrett and the characters did a remarkable piece of work in preparing the play for presentation in less than three weeks.

Bob Nordyke as Gideon Heath, the millionaire, and Betty Williams as Dorcas, an orphan, were outstanding. The parts of Blanche Heath, a young widow, and her daughter were taken by Helen Schmeltzer and Ruth Frost respectively. Grace Hampton portrayed the severe Aunt Adeline Heath, while Arlyn Evans took the part of the out-cast uncle, Fred Lawlor.

Johnny Heath, a young artist just home from Paris, was depicted by Ivan Makinster. Lester Dunn made a dignified and eligible bachelor in the role of Ronald Heath, president of Brewster College. Lottie Pringle was well characterized by Reola Symons.

This initial dramatic effort of the class of 1939 was enthusiastically received by a large audience.

Debate

FOR THE FIRST TIME in several years, Pacific College entered inter-collegiate debating and emerged with laurels.

Under the direction of Miss Veva Garrett, teams were organized to debate the question, Resolved: that strikes should be prohibited by law.

The women's teams were Esther Miller and Marjorie Seely, affirmative, and Doris Darnielle and Esther Miller, negative. The women's teams defeated all women's teams which they met in the tournament, winning the title of champions in the Intercollegiate Forensics Association of Oregon.

The men's affirmative team won one victory and lost three close decisions. Members of the team were Willard Hehn and Wilbur Newby. The negative, Lewis Hoskins and John Dimond, won all their debates. This gave Pacific College second place, having been defeated in the finals by Pacific university.

Marjorie Seely is the only debater who will be lost by graduation.

Ronald Sherk represented the alma mater in the Peace oratorical contest in Portland. Harvey Campbell was P. C.'s entrant in the after dinner speaking contest at Linfield, where he took fourth place.

Chorus

UNDER THE DIRECTION of Mr. Joseph Finley the chorus class has finished a year of worth while activities. Approximately twenty students have participated in the chorus this year.

The group went to Portland and presented a program for radio broadcast under the sponsorship of the Portland Federation of Churches during the pre-Easter period.

Earlier in the school year the group presented a Christmas cantata, "His Natal Day". Before the cantata proper, several miscellaneous numbers were presented as chorus and solo work. Featured soloists of the evening were Miss Isabel Frost, Miss Jean Gardner, Miss Rachel Pemberton, Mr. Joseph Finley.

As a climax to the year's activities the class presented in collaboration with many of the townspeople Handel's "Messiah". Prof. Earl Wagner and Mrs. Arthur Strickland acted as accompanists for the group. The rendering of this very difficult musical series was outstanding and attracted a large audience of those who appreciate good music.

Coach Chapman

COACH HAL CHAPMAN, concluding his second year as coach of the blue and gold athletic teams, has turned in another fine demonstration of his skill and ability.

The increased improvement in all Pacific athletics the past two years is due primarily to the splendid efforts of Coach Chapman. His pleasing personality has gained him a host of friends here, who wish him great success.

Miss Veva Garrett

MISS VEVA GARRETT, former Pacific College student, has completed her first year as director of women's athletics.

Following her two years at Pacific College she went to Willamette University where she graduated with a B. A. degree. From Willamette she attended Oregon Normal at Monmouth for two terms where she obtained her teacher's certificate.

Miss Garrett, ably assisted by student instructors, has given women's athletics a prominent place on the athletic program.

Professor Emmett Gulley

EMMETT GULLEY, professor of Sociology and Spanish, has been the director of men's athletics for the past two years. Under his very capable direction the athletic program of the college has progressed each year.

Professor Gulley, a graduate of the 1917 class of Pacific, was coach of the Quaker athletic teams for six years previous to his appointment as athletic director at Pacific College.

Football

A SUCCESSFUL FOOTBALL SEASON was enjoyed by Coach Chapman and his second Quaker eleven. Out of nine games played, the team won five, lost two and tied two for a season's rating of .714.

The first game of the season was lost to Pacific U. 6-0. This defeat was avenged in a return game when the Blue and Gold forces scored a 7-0 win over the Baby Badgers from Forest Grove.

Other wins were posted over Chemawa, O. I. T., Reed, and Albany Branch.

Tie games were played with Linfield and Reed while Albany College of Albany administered the other defeat.

Outstanding backfield performers were Clyde Vinson and Jack Mahoney. Mahoney's consistent playing was evidenced by the fact that he played every quarter of every game. Orla Kendall, another big gun in the backfield, Louis Sandoz and Glen Everest completed the ball packing department.

Alfred Bates was the most consistent and valuable player on the line. He has played in every quarter of every game for two years. Johnny Dimond and Delmer Putnam turned in a consistent season's play.

Many of this year's club will not return, but Coach Chapman is planning to rebuild his team and try to turn out an eleven at least equally as strong as this year's.

L'AMI

Tennis

WITH ONLY TWO MEMBERS of last year's strong tennis squad in school, Wayne Tate, manager, undertook to build a team out of the material on hand.

Lewis Hoskins and Manager Tate were the two hold-overs. The rest of the squad was composed of Allen Hadley, Louis Coffin, and Johnny Dimond, none of whom had earned tennis letters before.

While not the strongest team to be turned out by Pacific, the squad enjoyed a measure of success in view of the experience of the players and the strong opposition encountered.

The women's team was handicapped by the loss of the first two players from last year's squad. The team was composed of Mary Brooks, Corilda Stewart, Marjorie Miller, Esther Miller, and Helen Schmeltzer.

Although defeated in most of their matches, the women played hard, steady tennis and gained valuable experience.

Women's Volleyball

A GREAT DEAL of interest was shown in women's volleyball this year as twelve young women turned out for practice.

The record of the Quakers was not as good as that of previous years, yet the team may well be proud. The players are known among their various opponents for their courtesy, sportsmanship, and decided enthusiasm.

The Pacific team played five games this season Pacific University, twice; Reed, once; Oregon City, twice. The girls played better ball on their home court, for they defeated Oregon City 26 to 21, and Reed 31 to 28, in two exciting games.

The following women will receive volleyball letters this spring: Violet Braithwaite, Dorothy Choate, Emma Hogue, Janet Jack, Esther Miller, Marjorie Miller, Rachel Pemberton, Marjorie Seely, and Corilda Stewart. The reserves included Charlotte Coleman, Isabella Wilson, and Lucy Wilson.

Miss Veva Garrett, women's athletic director, coached the Pacific team.

L'AMI
1936

Basketball

THE 1935-36 EDITION of the Quaker basketball team started the season with a string of six straight victories.

The seventh game was a one point defeat received from the O. I. T. club in an overtime game. That contest marked the beginning of a slump which struck just in mid-season and lasted long enough to register five straight losses.

Against O. I. T. for the second time the Pacific club avenged their previous defeat and ended the long list of reversals.

Two game series were split with Rickreall Townies, Albany Branch, and O. I. T. The Sherwood Town team was the only club to get a double defeat from the Quaker club.

Six letters were awarded by Coach Chapman to the members of the club. Forwards receiving monograms are Louis Coffin, flashy sophomore from Berkeley, and John Dimond, playing his first season as a regular; Walt Johnson, stellar center, received his award as a valuable two year vet; Allen Hadley and Delmer Putnam were awarded their third basketball letters. These two guards acted as co-captains during the season. Ned Green was the sixth man to be given his basketball letter.

L'AMI

Baseball

SEVEN LETTERMEN and a fine group of prospects turned out for baseball practice when the season opened.

With such a fine nucleus to build on, Coach Chapman developed a very strong team. Verle Emery was put behind the bat, and although he had never caught before, he turned in steady performances in every game. Lanky Walt Johnson did most of the pitching with strong assistance from Jerry Fisher and Delmer Putnam. These three chuckers gave the team the strongest pitching staff in several years. First base duties were ably handled by Putnam; Johnny Dimond, second base; Jerry Fisher, shortstop; and Dutchy Everest, third, completed a veteran infield which was plenty tight in the pinches.

The outfield was composed of Ned Green, Orla Kendall, fly catchers par excellence, and Loyd Schaad, Ray Miller, and Lester Dunn.

Most of the team will be on hand next year for another successful baseball season.

O. I. T. was the victim of the heavy bats of the Quakers when they lost a game 13-3. A 14-14 tie with Reed College was played in the initial game. The strong Reed team later took a close decision from the Pacific aggregation.

May Day

ONE OF THE MOST colorful and grandest May Days in the history of Pacific College, according to alumni, old students and townspeople, was ruled over Friday, May 1, by Queen Jean I.

Aided by nearly perfect weather and fine directing, the day's activities were presented smoothly and in a manner to please the huge crowd that gathered for the celebration.

The noon parade proved a popular feature of the day. A large number of very beautiful and colorful floats was headed by the Queen's float and the Legion color guard.

Following this the crowd gathered on the south campus. Members of the royal party marched across the lawn to the throne and bower. The flower girl was Gwendolyn Switzer; crown bearer, Linden Cole; and train bearers, Sandra Moore and Priscilla Moore. Harvey Campbell, Cardinal of the May, was followed by the Princesses and attendants: Lera Rice, Rachel Pemberton, Mary Colver and Isabella Wilson, and Ronald Sherk, Willard Hehn, Clayton Hicks, and Virgil Hiatt. Then followed Her Majesty and train bearers. At the head of the procession was a men's quartet, composed of Allen Hadley, Robert Nordyke, Ivan Makinster and Ray Miller, singing the May Day March, accompanied by Esther Miller.

Ascending to the throne the Cardinal crowned Miss Gardner Queen Jean I. The Queen then addressed her subjects over the loud speaking system.

Homage was paid to the Queen by the junior class, the sophomore class, the freshman class, and the senior class.

The minuet followed this. Sixteen girls in colonial dresses danced the minuet before the Royal Party.

The homage of the faculty and alumni was then given followed by the winding of the May Pole. This year it was wound by twelve girls and twelve boys. The girls' pastel formals and the boys' dark coats and light pants made it a beautiful ceremony.

Lynn B. Ferguson then announced the prize winners of the parade.

The recession concluded this part of the day's activities.

Immediately following the coronation a tea was held for Queen Jean and her court at President and Mrs. Pennington's home. A large number of friends used this opportunity to meet her Majesty and her court.

Marred by a little rain and a bad seventh inning, the spectators nevertheless enjoyed the baseball game the remainder of the afternoon. Final score: Albany Branch 10, Pacific 4.

The entire student body as well as many guests of the college were served a "college" supper at Wood-Mar Hall May Day evening. The Queen's court sat at a separate table, beautifully decorated. A huge cake in the shape of a May basket, bearing the inscription, "Queen Jean I" formed the center piece. The rest of the diners were grouped around two large tables in the annex, and the overflow ate in the hall. The menu consisted of potato salad, meatloaf, sandwiches, punch, pickles, jello, and cake. All present were also given a piece of the Queen's cake. A student body committee arranged and served the meal.

The feature of the evening, of course, was the May Day play "The Romantic Young Lady," presented to a large and appreciative audience in Wood-Mar Hall.

The tennis matches occupied most of the morning. Pacific University proved too strong for the Quaker lads and walked off with all of the matches.

The day as a whole was a full one but highly successful in every detail.

Miss Veva Garrett directed the May Pole, Minuet, and evening play. Ray Hansberry was in general charge. Earl Layman, Margaret Coulson, Esther Miller, Emma Hogue, and Lewis Hoskins were heads of important committees.

Editor's Appreciation

MAKING POSSIBLE a yearbook such as Pacific College's L'Ami requires more than a few elected officers, but the cooperation and work of an entire annual staff and those outside of the college who had affiliations with the publication of the book.

We wish to extend our most sincere thank yous to the following persons individually and everyone who has aided in making the 1936 L'Ami a success.

Mr. Robert Black of Hicks-Chatten Engraving Company for his advice, suggestions, and cooperation.

Mr. Norman Riley of Riley Studio for his efforts to make a better annual through individual pictures and his excellent work in photography.

The Newberg Graphic for helpful suggestions and aid in assembling the book and for the printing.

To individual students:

Rachel Pemberton for her unceasing and untiring work on photography schedules.

To Doris Darnielle for typing.

To Ronald Sherk and John Dimond for securing sufficient advertising to make the book possible.

To Pacific College students, friends and faculty for loyal support by purchasing copies of the 1936 L'Ami.

To the staff:

Associate Editors—Delmer Putnam, Willard Hehn.

Faculty Adviser—Miss Emma Kendall.

Classes—Peggy Otis.

Administration—Wauline Nelson.

Manager's Appreciation

IF YOU HAVE ENJOYED the 1936 L'Ami, these advertisements comprise a section of great interest to you. They show graphically the splendid support which business men interested in Pacific have given to the yearbook.

Their support merits your appreciation, and your continued patronage.
